

TAKEAWAY - 02

Move from “Lessons Learned” to “Lessons Unlearned”

Executives and organizations are exceptionally good at codifying success through retrospectives, personal playbooks, and frameworks. But they may struggle with letting go of the assumptions, habits, and past logics that no longer serve them in new contexts.

This takeaway invites us to flip the script: strategic maturity isn’t just about learning more, it’s about knowing when to unlearn. AI can play a critical role here, not by adding insight, but by gently challenging institutional muscle memory.